

John F. Boeyer, Aged 74 Of Tinley Park Dies Of Heart Attack While Driving Truck

The Tinley Park community was saddened and greatly shocked, Sunday, Dec. 29 to learn of the sudden passing of Mr. John F. Boeyer.

Mr. Boeyer was driving his truck on 183rd Street Sunday, when near 183rd and Cicero he suffered a heart attack, and when found was slumped over the steering wheel. He had returned last Thursday from a trip to California, Texas and Arkansas.

John F. Boeyer was born August 18, 1872 in Mehringen, Germany and came to this country in 1880 with his parents, who settled in this section. He was united in marriage with Louise Becker on August 23, 1904, who preceded him in death in 1940.

Mr. Boeyer was in the employ of the International Harvester Company for many years, starting to work for the company when 23 years old.

He served the company as their European Manager, traveling all through Europe. While in Holland around 1900, he received a medal from the Queen in recognition of his work toward the advancement of Agriculture in Holland.

Mr. Boeyer was active in research work in Germany which led to the building of a large Harvester plant at Neuss. He traveled extensively in Russia and he and the late Mrs. Boeyer were in Europe when war broke out in 1914. In 1917 the family located in Tinley Park and has resided here since. A few years ago he was pensioned.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. May Homan of Glendale, Cal., Mrs. Ericka Mancke of Tinley Park; two sons, Harold of Los Angeles, Herman of Tinley Park. 8 grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Louise Coon of Hammond, Ind., Mrs. Anna Hopman of Indiana, 4 brothers Herman of Lodi, Neb., Wm. and George of Midlothian and Henry of Hammond.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon December 31 at 2:00 o'clock from the Hirsch chapel in Tinley Park, with Rev. Albert Buddenhagen, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, officiating.

Interment was in Tinley Park cemetery.

Special Senate Committee To Investigate Methods To Help Small Business Men

The Senate Special Committee to study the Problems of American Small Business will open hearings on the problems of the smaller newspapers on January 7 Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, of Montana, announced today.

Denying reports of any disagreement between them, Senator Murray, chairman of the committee said: "Senator Wherry and I conferred today on the small newspaper hearings, and we agreed that they should be scheduled for the January 7 date, which is the first Tuesday in the new year. The purpose of the hearings is to determine what can be done to preserve the vitality of the smaller newspapers of the Nation. We are inviting the assistance of all who want to keep the American press vitally competitive.

"Small dailies and weeklies face more serious threats to their existence today than ever before, the Montana Senator reported. At first we were anxious to study this as a long range problem, because of the high death rate in the industry, but small papers are caught right now in a terrible squeeze which many of them may not survive. Their costs are steadily rising but they cannot expand their advertising or circulation because they don't have the newsprint paper for it.

Six weeks ago, Senator Murray sent a letter to thousands of publishers over the country, of which this newspaper was one asking for information about "seven possible obstacles to free competition." He reported today that hundreds of replies have been received and are now being studied.

"I want to thank these publishers and editors for the many impressive, well considered letters which they have sent to the committee. Forty six states are represented in the replies. On the basis of these replies and some preliminary staff research, we are planning opening the hearings on January 7.

Noted experts as well as independent publishers have already been invited to appear before the committee. The calendar now being drawn includes:

Morris L. Ernst, nationally prominent legal expert in the newspaper field, newly appointed to the President's Commission on Civil Rights Legislation, who will make the opening statement at the hearings.

Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture.

Avrell Harriman Secretary of Commerce, Julius A. Krug, Secretary of Interior; James Lawrence Fly, former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. Thurman Arnold, foe of business and labor monopoly and former Associate Justice, United States Court of Appeals.

Woodruff Randolph, president, International Typographical Union.

Other witnesses will be added as plans for the hearings go forward," Senator Murray said. "We intend to give the fullest possible consideration in the hearings to each phase of the problem, particularly newsprint, monopoly and survival. We will also consider small newspaper advertising, taxes, postal rates, production costs, labor problems. We will consider specific proposals for legislation remedies where appropriate."

"The Windjammer" Starring Bob Burns

Free to farmers, in this and neighboring communities, is the big John Deere Day program to be held at the Tinley Park school, on January 6 at 7:30.

According to Mancke and Radcliffe, John Deere dealer in Tinley Park, this year's John Deere Day Program will provide a full measure of top notch entertainment every farmer and his family will long remember.

The main attraction is a 55 minute Hollywood feature, "The Windjammer" which stars "Bazooka" Bob Burns, famous radio and screen comedian. The "rib-tickling" story is built around a windy character, Bob Newton by name, who claims to be able to make animals talk. His experiences, and those of his charming daughter, in filming a talking animal picture in Hollywood will be enjoyed by everyone.

BOB "Bazooka" BURNS

In the supporting cast are such well known artists as Gale Robbins, Scott Elliott, Kenneth MacDonald, Ida Moore Eddie Kane, Dan Duncan, and Sam Flint.

Four other All-Talking Pictures. In addition to "The Windjammer," four other new all talking pictures will be shown. They include "Headliners in Tractor Value" the story of the new John Deere Models A and B tractors for 1947. "New Power for the Smaller Farm", an important announcement of a new tractor with a complete line of integral equipment for the small acreage farmer. "Conservation Farming with Regular Equipment" an educational picture on how to keep your soil "at home" with the equipment you have on your own farm and "New Pages in John Deere Progress" a newsreel on newly developed John Deere integral and drawn machines for 1947.

Mancke and Radcliffe cordially invites every farm family in this area to come to this big farmer's day program. They promise a good time to everyone who comes.

According to Mancke and Radcliffe, admission to the John Deere Day program is by ticket only. Any farmer who has not received tickets can get them free by inquiring at the store before the day of the show.

Mrs. Wm. Cooper nee Hollstein, Dead

Mrs. Wm. Cooper of Brook, Indiana passed away at the Jasper County hospital at Rensselaer, Indiana early Monday morning Dec. 23. She had suffered from a heart ailment for several years but had entered the hospital only Saturday.

Kate S. Cooper, nee Hollstein, was born May 7, 1873 in Orland Township. She was the daughter of Charles E. and Catherine S. Hollstein. In 1892 she was united in marriage with William Cooper, and came to Indiana two years later where they made their home for over fifty years.

To this union were born seven children: Arthur of Goodland, Laura of Indianapolis, Olive, Wilbert and Amy of Brook, Ruth of LaPorte and Elsie of Gary. These she leaves to mourn her loss together with eleven grandchildren including Earl, who is stationed with the United States Army in Korea. She is also survived by three brothers: Wm. of Tinley Park, Leo of Orland Island, Neb., and Arthur of Long Beach, Cal., as well as three sisters Mrs. Edgar Cooper of Orland Park, Mrs. J. J. Moor, of DeMotte, Ind., and Mrs. Henry Andres of Peotone.

She was a true pioneer mother, enduring uncomplainingly the hard work and hardships of carving out a home and a future for her family. She found her happiness in the challenge and conquest of seemingly insurmountable difficulties, and in shielding her family from the things that had hurt her most.

In her younger days, there was scarcely a home in the vicinity that had not known the comfort of her helpful, efficient hands in ministering to the sick or in meeting other home emergencies.

Her deepest regret in later life was that failing health had impaired her usefulness, and limited her social contacts. She was loved and respected by all who knew her, and will be sorely missed in the home to which she had given her love and devotion.

Funeral services were held Thursday, Dec. 26 at the Brook M. E. church with the pastor, Rev. Kenneth Thompson, officiating assisted by Rev. J. J. Moor, of DeMotte, Indiana. Burial was made in Riverside Cemetery, Brook, Ind.

Besides her immediate family of husband and seven children, Mrs. Cooper leaves to mourn her loss a host of friends and relatives.

Those from Illinois attending the funeral were: Mr. William Hollstein, Miss Lena Hollstein, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Hollstein of Tinley Park, Mr. Edgar Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mr. Harvey Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sayers, Mr. Earl Sayers and son, Mrs. Gilbert Sayers all of Orland Park; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cooper, Miss Celia Cooper, Mrs. Florence Neithammer of Mokena; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andres and nephew, Mr. Leo Andres and Mrs. Dewey Andres of Peotone; Wesley Hollstein, Mrs. Esther Heusner and Milton Hollstein of Frankfort; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hollstein of Montana and Mrs. Conrad Andres of Tinley Park.

Others attending from out of town were, Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Moor, DeMotte, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brafford, of Bass Lake, Ind.; Mrs. Jeanie Duggleby, of Donald Duggleby and Mrs. Katie Sage of Winamac, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sage and family of Michigan City; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foster and Miss Leila Doyle of Gary, Ind.; and Mr. and Mrs. Casel Whetstone of Mentone, Indiana.

MARRIAGE LASTED ONLY 5 MONTHS, HUSBAND CHARGES

Charging that his wife, Carol, of Mokena, left him less than five months after their marriage last year, Gordon Spiess of Mokena, has instituted divorce proceedings in the Will County Circuit court.

According to the complaint, they were married at Mokena July 14, 1945. They have one child, Lawrence Gordon, who is in the custody of the defendant.

Mrs. Spiess left him Dec. 4, of last year, he alleges.

The suit was filed thru Attorney R. C. Schoenstedt.

PARTY IN CAR ACCIDENT DID NOT LEAVE SCENE OF CRASH

Mr. Melvin Stege, 24 of Tinley Park, was the driver of the car which figured in an auto collision with Mr. A. Perotti of New Lenox at midnight of December 17th.

According to information furnished up at the time, it was stated in last week's paper that "the occupant of the colliding car did not stop." We have since been informed that was in error. In talking with Sgt. Gilbert Knater of the state police, he said that Mr. Stege went to the Owen home at the place of the accident on Route 30, and called the State police. This call was answered by Sgt. Knater, who reached the scene of the accident 15 minutes after it happened. Mr. Stege remained with the cars until the Sergeant arrived and a passing truck driver took Mr. Perotti to the hospital. Mr. Stege assisted in placing the injured man on the truck.

Police said circumstances indicated that Mr. Perotti came over into the east bound traffic lane and sideswiped Mr. Stege's machine.

After colliding with the Stege car, Mr. Perotti's car was thrown across the street, hitting a telephone pole, and landing in the ditch.

LAST LOVER

— Helen Topping Miller

Twenty-five years have elapsed since the disappearance of Richard McFarlane in World War I and his wife, Julia, is beset with fresh worries as the children she has raised with the aid of her father-in-law, John I. McFarlane, become involved in World War II. Ric, 27, has "washed out" in the air corps while Jill, 26, falls in love with Spang Gordon, a young lieutenant. Julia confides her troubles to Dave Patterson, an old family friend who has always secretly loved her. Jill and Spang go to a dance and Jill discovers she is in love but is nettled when Spang apparently doesn't return her feeling. She acts gay, however, to conceal her own love from him.

CHAPTER V

Then abruptly Spang cleared his throat. "I've got something to tell your mother," he said, "and I'm worried whether I should tell her or not. Maybe you'll know what I should do."

"You mean—something about me?"

He broke off a head of goldenrod and examined the small sulphur-colored blossoms minutely. "No, not about you. You suit me fine. I've had a grand time, and I hope you'll let me come back again. If I'm not shipped out. No, it's about Ric."

"I suppose he's in some sort of trouble? That happens," she said stiffly.

"Ric and I were pretty good friends at college," Spang went on. "We lived in the same house, and though I finished two years before he did, we wrote now and then and kept in touch. Then this war came along, and I got in early and got my commission, and of course Ric was an enlisted man, so that complicated things. But I've managed to see him occasionally."

"And you don't like what he's doing? Is he ducking out of things, breaking regulations, that sort of thing?"

"I don't know about his service record. But the last time we were in town I saw him with a woman. They were both drinking, and though Ric wasn't tight, exactly, he was talking too loud. He wanted me to meet her."

"Did he salaam properly before the shoulder-bars and the beautiful whip-cord breeches?" Jill spoke more bitterly than she knew because her heart was hurting from disappointment.

Spang laid the gold-spangled leaf on top of her head. "Don't be nasty, gal. Can I help it if this army is all stiffened up with military courtesy and stuff? I still like Ric. That's why I didn't like what I was seeing. She's older than he is, she's been divorced, her first husband was an officer who got kicked down stairs after Pearl Harbor. She's living there in the hotel, and a sergeant I know pretty well told me that Ric was seeing a lot of her. She's a handsome wench, one of those silver blondes with nice skin and a helpless look—you know the type. I have a feeling your mother wouldn't like it, but still I hate to say anything."

"But surely Ric couldn't get serious about a woman like that?"

"I don't know."

Ric Provides a New Worry

"You do know, Spang, more than you're telling me! I don't have to be protected from the truth, even if it isn't pleasant."

"No, I really don't know anything definite, Jill. I'm just worried, that's all, and since I've met your mother and seen the sort of home Ric has, it bothers me. It may be just another episode. Ric had a few when we were together."

"The trouble is," Jill said, "Mother spoiled Ric terribly. My father didn't come back, and I think she needed somebody to lavish all that love upon, somebody to keep her heart from breaking. I was just a good egg, somebody she could talk to, but Ric got her deep affection. And anything he does that's off-color would hurt her frightfully. I'd hate to tell her. I'll decide whether I ought to, after you're gone. You couldn't do anything about it anyway, could you?"

"No, I couldn't do anything about it. Ric's a man, he'd resent any interference from me. He'd have a right to resent it. Of course he may be shipped out, and that will put an end to the affair."

"Then it is an affair?"

"Jill, I've told you all I know. I've heard her discussed in various places and heard the things other men say about her, that's all. I've heard men speak of her when they were talking without inhibitions. And Ric is pretty young—"

"Twenty-seven isn't so young. He's old enough to have a little sense," Jill said angrily.

They walked down the lane, saying little after that.

He isn't going to say anything, maybe he doesn't care at all, Jill was thinking, with the painful knot made of anger and tears growing hard and tight in her throat.

Spang talked of the future, presently, but of a future in which she had no part—or any other woman, if that could be called a comfort. He said, "A month from now I'll be looking back on this week-end, thinking of the wonderful time I've had—"

"And trying," Jill asked, her head tilted a little, "to remember how I look?"

He bent his head, and his eyes moved over her slowly and soberly. "I won't have to try. Hair like a new five-inch shell and a sassy nose—"

"Disposition like T.N.T.," Jill supplied, keeping to the airy mood, "hair-trigger set. If things don't happen when I want them to, I explode all over the place."

"No," Spang said quietly, "you aren't like that. When you go up against a thing you really want, you wait for it quietly, with considerable determination."

"Grim. Very grim!"

"Have you found anything yet that you really wanted and didn't get? Something you really wanted, I mean—not a whim."

Jill set her teeth. Was he trying her, trying to get past the rigid control of her chin and her careful eyelids? "When I find it I'll get it—some way, some time!"

"Desperate, eh?" Spang laughed a little. But the laugh was shaken, and so was the pressure of his hand on her elbow uncertain. "Your eyes don't give you away as a desperate female, at all."

"How do they look? Inane, I suppose?"

"Oh, sort of sweet—and melting. I think you'll find ways to get what you want without any fight."

So her eyes were melting! But they were melting, they were practically dissolving, and if she talked any more she'd be crying like a fool, because she was in love and men were so unbearably stupid!

She said coolly, "I've trained my eyes to lie very politely. Let's hurry, shall we? I smell the roast, and Mamie gets peevish if dinner waits on Sunday. She belongs to the Holiness Church and they have services in the afternoon."

After that the day wore on, her grandfather telling over again interminably the story of how Buzzard's Hill had been a military hospital in the Civil War, Julia trying to efface herself and maneuver John I. away so that Jill and Spang could be alone. Sweet of Dooley, Jill thought, but all quite useless. Spang wasn't in love with her. How could he be and keep so carefully silent about it?

Thank heaven, when she put him on the bus at dusk, she hadn't let herself go, hadn't been careless enough to let him see how utterly lost she was!

He had held both her hands when he said good-by, and she had promised to come down to the field again as soon as she could, and then he had given her a gay little salute and climbed aboard and been rushed away out of her sight.

A Talk Between Julia and Jill

The heat settled, drowsy and enervating as it pressed upon the world in August, and Jill grew a little wan.

She tried gallantly to fit herself into the quiet life of Buzzard's Hill. She pretended an excited interest in the new pigs, though privately she thought the wriggling, hairless little things revolting, and thought what an amazing thing mother-love must be, that it could believe any new creation lovely.

She even put in a warm morning digging in the garden that was going sadly to weeds since Foster's son had gone off to the army. At noon she went back to the house, soaked in perspiration, a good manicure a sad ruin, and every muscle screaming weariness from the unaccustomed activity. After that strenuous adventure she took a hot shower and flung herself on the bed, too utterly tired to go down to lunch.

Julia found her there and looked at her shrewdly. "You're taking this the hard way, Jill. I've brought you some cold milk. Drink it and go to sleep. You're being very gallant, but try to be reasonable about it."

"I have to do something, Dooley. Life has to be for something or about something. Mine isn't. It's just a purposeless existence, just using up days. And there are so many of them, and they're so long!"

Julia dropped into a chair. She wore her heavy jeans, and she was warm and weary, too. "I know. You haven't had to learn yet how long years can be, Jill. I hope you never will."

"How did you bear it, Dooley, that last war? You aren't changed, you aren't old. You haven't any lines in your face."

"I had two children to take care of. And I had hope."

"And I," Jill said sadly, over the rim of the glass, "haven't anything at all!"

"It turned out that way, did it? I didn't want to ask any questions."

"It turned out that I fell in love so deeply I was practically shameless about it. And to all appearances, Spang didn't. He liked my eyes, he thought you were a handsome woman, he said he had a good time, and then he talked about the job he had to do and hoped he'd see me again. If that's love, Dooley, what kind is it?"

"Perhaps the bravest kind of all, Jill. The kind a man keeps to himself because he knows he has nothing to offer a woman, nothing but uncertainty and dread and grief."

"Even those are better than nothing at all! You wouldn't know, Dooley, how awful nothing can be. Emptiness! Time going on. Oh, I know I'm talking like an idiot. I told you I hadn't any shame at all. Dooley, I want to go down to the field pretty soon. I want some new knock-out clothes and one of those feather hair cuts and to have my eyebrows touched up. Why did I have to get these ferocious eyebrows, Dooley, when yours are so delicate? You're a McFarlane, too."

"There were dark McFarlanes and red McFarlanes. I got a little from both strains. Your father was almost a blond. His eyes were blue."

"Blue eyes would be horrible with my hair. I could see Ric if I went down to the field, Dooley. That is, if he isn't shipped out somewhere. He won't get a furlough, you know, for ages."

"Do you think you really want to go, Jill? You know there is such a thing as being too eager."

"Oh, Dooley, they buried all that stuff with Augusta J. Evans! A nice girl would stick quietly at home to be wooed and won, but try sticking and see what it gets you, how beautifully you're stuck! I have to see Spang again before they send him off to Africa or some other hideous spot, or I'll curl up and die! And I haven't an inhibition in the world, but I do have sense. Nobody knows what a fool I am but you, Dooley. You've been through this waiting business. You know how it hurts."

Julia's face changed, paled and grew taut. "What a ridiculous suggestion!" she said stiffly.

THE WORD MADE FLESH

LESSON TEXT—John 1:1-18.
MEMORY SELECTION—No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.—John 1:18.

A new year always carries with it a deep sense of responsibility and at the same time a thrill of expectancy.

That is why we need to begin this new year—and continue it—in the study of God's Word, so that we may know his will. You will find it to be a joy and blessing to you, not only as you study it by yourself, but also in the fellowship of those in the Sunday school and church.

Our lessons for the next three months are of unusual interest, for they take up the Gospel of John which was "written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name" (John 20:31).

Jesus Christ is here presented as the Word (Logos), and he is indeed the living Word come to reveal God to us.

I. The Living Word Is the Light of Men (vv. 1-5).

Men ask questions about Christ. They want to know whether he is to be regarded as a good man and a great leader, or must we recognize him as being God?

The answer is here. He "was" in the beginning (Gen. 1:1), which means that he pre-existed from all eternity, and he "was God" even as he was "with God." This eternal, living, divine Word was the "express image" of God (Heb. 1:3), and so perfectly revealed the Father (v. 18).

He is the Creator (v. 3) and giver of life both natural and spiritual. This eternal Word became (as he was) the light of men. He came to shine into the darkness of a sinful world with the only light of redemption. We say again, "This is the Lord!"

II. The Living Word Is a Divider of Men (vv. 6-13).

The darkness of sin was so deep, and still is so deep that the glorious light of God is not received with gladness, nor accepted at all. We see that in the close of verse 5.

Now the question comes, Does it make any difference how a man regards Jesus Christ?

The answer is clear. You must decide what you will do with him. You cannot avoid that decision or evade that light which shines. You must either accept or reject, and a failure to accept is a rejection.

God has witnesses to the Light. John was such a witness and he, like all true witnesses for Christ, directed attention to him. John's great testimony was just a lesser light to point men to the true Light. That true Light is shed abroad for all men (v. 9).

As they face Christ, men divide into two groups. His own people, and his own creation rejected him when he came (v. 11). How utterly tragic! And yet the same thing goes on today. Men hear the gospel, are made acquainted with Christ and his claims, yet fail to accept his proffered salvation, and are eternally lost (John 3:19; Eph. 2:1).

But, thank God, there are those who receive him (v. 12), and to them he gives the power, the right or authority, to be the sons of God.

This change is expressly declared to be (1) not by reason of family or heredity—"not of blood"; (2) not by natural instinct or development—"not of the will of the flesh"; and (3) not by human volition or by man's will power—"not of the will of man."

III. The Living Word Is a Re-vealer of God (vv. 14-18).

The eternal Word, the Lord Jesus Christ, laid aside his place of honor in heaven, came to earth and took upon himself our flesh that he might redeem us from sin. What infinite condescension, what unfathomable love!

He dwelt among men and showed forth the grace and truth of God, for he was full of these heavenly attributes. But it was in his giving of himself as Redeemer and Saviour of mankind that he fully revealed God in all his gracious love for us.

Notice the antithesis here. "Law" is set over against "grace"; "given" stands in contrast with "came," and "Moses" with "Jesus Christ."

The law was a schoolmaster to bring us to Christ (Gal. 3:24), but it could not save anyone; but grace—oh, it is by grace that we are saved (Eph. 2:8).

Moses was God's honored servant, but Jesus was the Son in the household (Heb. 3:5, 6). It was this Son of God who came to reveal the Father and to declare his grace in salvation.

The law was sent through a messenger, but no messenger, no matter how great or worthy, would do to bring the gospel of the grace of God. That message of "grace and truth came by Jesus Christ" (v. 17).

Claim for Mistletoe
Most striking of the properties attributed to mistletoe is its alleged virtue of producing fertility in plants, animals and human beings. It is said that on an island in Torres Strait the savages believe that twins will be born to any woman who touches or carries a piece of mistletoe. An article in "The Country Magazine"—1792—refers to the custom of kissing under the mistletoe as "no doubt the surest way to prove prolific."

Commercial Fertilizer
Commercial fertilizers were introduced over 50 years ago. At first, the packing houses in Chicago began to make the by-products of their meat-processing plants into fertilizer. Then so-called mixed and complete fertilizer came along in concentrated form by adding treated phosphatic rock for the phosphoric acid, and potash salts, mostly mined in Germany at first, for the potash in "mixed" goods.

Rat Waste
It takes 50 pounds of grain (or its equivalent) to feed a rat a year. In addition to what it eats, a rat will waste anywhere from 50 to 100 pounds by making the product unfit for market or by contaminating it so it is unfit for use by humans.

Meals Aboard
Over 10,000 meals a day are served to the passengers and crew of the Queen Elizabeth deluxe ocean liner.

Frozen Beets
When prepared fresh, beets require a fairly long cooking period and, unless they are cooked whole, have a tendency to lose their bright red color by bleeding. To avoid these problems in the frozen product, choose tender beets no more than two inches in diameter. Cook them whole for 25 to 30 minutes, remove the skins and slice or dice. This gives a good-quality product which requires only three to five minutes of cooking after freezing.

Flameproof Materials
Cotton, pure silk, viscose rayon, wool and mixtures of these are easily flameproofed with little or no change in feel, draping, appearance or strength. Fire retardant treatments are usually applied after yarns are made into cloth or after the cloth is made into the finished product. Other treatments that have been developed for outside use are generally specified for such materials as canvas and duck.

Rats Spread Disease
Veterinarians say that diseases and losses of livestock are more prevalent on farms where rats are present. In making this claim they name such diseases as white scours of calves, mastitis, ringworm, tuberculosis, contagious abortion (bang's disease), coccidiosis

Essentials of Voice
Simple essentials of a good voice, are these: to be heard (understood) and felt. Public speakers spend hours cultivating these points.

Civil Air Patrol, Squadron 613-3
by Sandy King

Check Points: Chandler Greggs, CAA engineer, will open the first Civil Aeronautics Administration office and high power communications station in the Philippine Islands early in 1947. The project will cost $8 million dollars! National Airlines has started the first one plane direct service from Newark Airport to Havana, Cuba, via Tampa, Florida. 80 percent of the flight space for the next 30 days has been sold out. Air Lines Pilots Association is dickering with American Airlines, Inc. for a 30 percent cost of living wage increase for pilots of twin engine planes. Capitol Airlines, PCA shortly will commence flying seven round trip flights to Europe each week for the Army Transport Command on a contractual basis. The route will be between Washington D. C. and Frankfurt, Germany via Bermuda, the Azores and Paris.

Fish Hawk: In the old days a scout on horseback busied himself with special messenger service, Indian reconnaissance, and delivered the mail. Now he roams far out to sea on the lookout for "running" fish. In a few days the S. S. Pacific Explorer, an Eight ton freighter, the worlds newest and most unusual seafood factory, will set sail from Seattle. It will carry an amphibious plane which will be used for fish scouting, ship to shore and emergency flights.

Airport News Notes—Rubinkam.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Greenfield of Chicago have chartered the Ecoupe for an extended flying vacation to Florida, via Washington, D. C. Pilot Greenfield earned his Private license last Summer under the instruction of Roy Cleveland at Rubinkam airport. Ray Hinch, Pres. of Beverly Flying Service, and Capt. Dick Case of American Airlines, flew the twin engine Cessna to Panama City, Fla., last Tuesday. They will bring Ray's father and mother Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinch back for the Holidays, then return them to Panama City after the first of the year. Cross Country—Mr. I. Langenderfer flew the Silvalre to Cleveland on Tuesday and returned Friday. A first solo flight was made by ex-G. I. Norman Carlson to Streator, Kankakee, and Momence airports. New student pilots enrolled in the G. I. Flight School are: Jimmy Frank of Tinley Park, brother of former Rubinkam line boy Lowell Frank; brothers Angelo and John Kalamannoff of Chicago, Wilbur Overman and Harold Phillips of Harvey, Don William St. Vincent of 12019 Yale Av., and Robert Loeb of the editorial staff of Esquire Mag, Chicago.

Thats all for now.

Sure Cure for a dim view...bright new light bulbs in every empty socket!

If these dark winter days cast gloom and shadows over your home, check your lighting. Very likely you'll find empty sockets, wrong-sized and burned-out bulbs are robbing you of light. By adding bright new light bulbs now you can bring warmth and cheer to every room of your home.

Proper light is important, too, as a protector of young eyes. Homework is less work if your children do not strain to read their books. Every member of the family deserves the benefits of the best light possible for sewing, reading and working.

Examine the lighting in your home today. Be sure every socket is filled with the proper-sized bulb. It takes very little time to brighten your home now . . . and keep your children's eyes bright for the future.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR LIBERAL RENEWAL POLICY

To all customers on light bulb exchange service there is no charge for replacing most sizes of standard, burned-out bulbs marked "PS of NP" or "Renewal Service."

After the dinner the group gathered in the auditorium for an appropriate program which was arranged by Mrs. C. G. Rowley.

A gift exchange was a pleasant feature of the afternoon. Election of officers was postponed until the January meeting, at which time Mrs. Henry Rodgers and Mrs. Wray White will act as hostesses.

Christmas Day guests in the John Donahue home were Mr. and Mrs. Barney Welter and family and Mrs. N. L. Welter.

Mrs. Bessie Reed has returned to her home in Chicago after spending several days in the home of her sister, Mrs. F. J. Paddock and visiting other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Hansen of Chicago were house guests over Christmas in the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bump.

Mr. and Mrs. Termunde and children were Christmas dinner guests of Mrs. Termunda, Sr. in Blue Island.

Mrs. Elizabeth Allen of Joliet is spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. John Parker and family.

The Jacob McQuires had their children and grandchildren as guests Christmas day.

Christmas Eve Mr. and Mrs. McGuire Mr. and Mrs. Francis Miller and son, Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Dan McGuire were entertained in the Dewey Ruettiger home in Lockport.

Mrs. George Welter, who has been a patient in St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, for two weeks, returned to her home Saturday much improved in health.

Mrs. Harold Finley and son, Robert, have returned to their home in Angola, Indiana, after visiting for a week in the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rowley.

Besides those named last week, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Voight of Joliet; Messrs. Lee White and Ray Tierney of Lockport were dinner guests in the Wray White home Christmas Day.

Miss Faye Cusick of Chicago, who was a Christmas house guest of the Vancil family, was among the dinner guests of Mrs. Ira Anderson, as was Mrs. Joseph Vancil, Sr., of Downers Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson and Mr. George Welter visited Mrs. George Welter in St. Luke's hospital Christmas.

The Henry Rodgers family had as Christmas guests Mrs. Bell Storm, Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Storm all of Maple Road.

About twenty young people, members of the O. C. Club of Lockport Congregational church enjoyed a bob ride Sunday evening to the Earl and Eleanor Kopelman home. After an enjoyable evening refreshments were served by their mother, Mrs. Fred Kopelman and sister Mrs. Angelo Depra.

Christmas Eve, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Cagwin entertained at dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Cagwin and children, Mr. Willard Cagwin and Miss Mary Glavis of Joliet.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beaver spent Christmas day in Chicago with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kotz, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ingersol attended a family gathering in the Robert Corp home in Troy.

Guests Christmas of the Fred Kopelman were Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Depra and daughters of Lockport and Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Cagwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson and children were Sunday evening guests of the Leonor Anderson's in New Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson entertained relatives from Chicago Xmas. "The Piggott Cabin" with its gaily lighted out-door tree, has been an attractive spot throughout the holidays.

Almanacs Long-Lived in U. S.; One in 250th Year

Among the oldest publications in the United States are the local almanacs the contents of which appeal chiefly to farmers, says Collier's.

For example, Gruber's Hagerstown Almanac is now in its 149th year, the Old Farmer's Almanac in its 154th, Daboll's New England Almanac in its 174th and Foulsham's Almanack in its 250th year.

Sublime to Ridiculous

A slightly tipsy gentleman walked into the telegraph office, took a pencil, spent three or four minutes in deep thought, and wrote this message to a friend in St. Louis:

"Tra la, tra la, tra la, tra la."

He signed it and presented it to the lady behind the counter.

After checking it, she said: "That will be 64 cents."

The gentleman paid her and she said: "You used only eight words."

"What would you suggest adding?" he finally asked.

"Well, how about just adding 'tra la,'" she said.

"No," he said firmly, "that would just make it sound silly."

AMERICA'S No. 1 HEEL and sole Tough and Springy

SURVIVES 13,000 VOLTS . . . Johnny Floyd, 9, shown with his mother at their home in Baltimore, survived 13,000 volts of electricity, only slightly the worse for the experience. This is more than six times the amount of voltage used in electrocuting criminals. The voltage passed through his body as he played atop a railroad car.

MAPS COMMUNITY SPORTS PROGRAM . . . Sports writers from all sections of the country met in Washington to hammer out a network of community sports programs offering boys and girls an outlet other than juvenile delinquency for their youthful energy. Left to right: W. F. Fox Jr., Indianapolis News; Bob Considine, International News; Douglas W. McGregor, attorney general's office; Al Santoro, Los Angeles Examiner; Jack Carberry, Denver Post, and Hugh Daily, Detroit Times, lead program plans.

HUCK FINN GOLDBLOCKS . . . Jimmy Garvin, 13, the most rugged of rugged individualists, has all the characteristics of a Huckleberry Finn, but he wears his hair long. His classmates at Langley junior high school, Washington, D. C., used to kid Jimmy about it.

FRANCO'S CHALLENGE TO UNITED NATIONS . . . Three-hour demonstration against the United Nations was staged in the heart of Madrid by 300,000 cheering Spaniards. One sign read: "Franco, we are at your orders against the world if you command it." Generalissimo Franco appeared before the crowd and told them that the United Nations had no right to interfere in the internal affairs of his country. The U. N. proposal to recall ambassadors brought about the demonstration.

HONORED FOR LANDING SYSTEM . . . The Robert J. Collier trophy, nation's highest aviation award, was given to Dr. Luis W. Alvarez, 35, University of California physics professor, for his ground-controlled approach system, which guides radio-equipped planes.

OFFERS EYE TO VET . . . Robert W. Lincoln, Brockton, Mass., veteran, recently gave a touching example of bravery and generosity when he offered one of his eyes to Corp. Chester R. Perkins, Phoenixville, Pa., hopelessly blinded by German mine.

HEADS UNRRA . . . Maj. Gen. Lowell W. Rooks, Arlington, Va., who has been named director general of UNRRA, to succeed Florento LaGuardia. Rooks has been serving as assistant director during the past year.

REVOLT ENDS . . . Pres. Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela, as he announced the end of the revolt by conservative insurgents. He stated that the captured insurgents will be given a fair trial.

Claim for Mistletoe

Most striking of the properties attributed to mistletoe is its alleged virtue of producing fertility in plants, animals and human beings. It is said that on an island in Torres Strait the savages believe that twins will be born to any woman who touches or carries a piece of mistletoe. An article in "The Country Magazine"—1792—refers to the custom of kissing under the mistletoe as "no doubt the surest way to prove prolific."

Commercial Fertilizer

Commercial fertilizers were introduced over 50 years ago. At first, the packing houses in Chicago began to make the by-products of their meat-processing plants into fertilizer. Then so-called mixed and complete fertilizer came along in concentrated form by adding treated phosphoric rock for the phosphoric acid, and potash salts, mostly mined in Germany at first, for the potash in "mixed" goods.

Rat Waste

It takes 50 pounds of grain (or its equivalent) to feed a rat a year. In addition to what it eats, a rat will waste anywhere from 50 to 100 pounds by making the product unfit for market or by contaminating it so it is unfit for use by humans.

Frozen Beets

When prepared fresh, beets require a fairly long cooking period and, unless they are cooked whole, have a tendency to lose their bright red color by bleeding. To avoid these problems in the frozen product, choose tender beets no more than two inches in diameter. Cook them whole for 25 to 30 minutes, remove the skins and slice or dice. This gives a good-quality product which requires only three to five minutes of cooking after freezing.

Flameproof Materials

Cotton, pure silk, viscose rayon, wool and mixtures of these are easily flameproofed with little or no change in feel, draping, appearance or strength. Fire retardant treatments are usually applied after yarns are made into cloth or after the cloth is made into the finished product. Other treatments that have been developed for outside use are generally specified for such materials as canvas and duck.

Rats Spread Disease

Veterinarians say that diseases and losses of livestock are more prevalent on farms where rats are present. In making this claim they name such diseases as white scours of calves, mastitis, ringworm, tuberculosis, contagious abortion (bang's disease), coccidiosis.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising

So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving. You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils. Children love its pleasant taste. And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Happy Relief When You're Sluggish Upset

WHEN CONSTIPATION makes you feel punk as the dickens, brings on stomach upset, sour taste, gassy discomfort, take Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine to quickly pull the trigger on lazy "innards" and help you feel bright and chipper again.

DR. CALDWELL'S is the wonderful senna laxative contained in good old Syrup Pepsin to make it so easy to take.

MANY DOCTORS use pepsin preparations in prescriptions to make the medicine more palatable and agreeable to take. So be sure your laxative is contained in Syrup Pepsin.

INSIST ON DR. CALDWELL'S—the favorite of millions for 50 years, and feel that wholesome relief from constipation. Even finicky children love it.

CAUTION: Use only as directed.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking--its risk of exposure and infection--throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling--feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

In the matter of Baby Girl Docker,
Alleged to be a Dependent Child.
To all whom it may concern

Take notice that on the 6th day of December 1946, a petition was filed by Paul Ohman in the County Court of Will County, to have a certain child, named Baby Girl Docker declared a dependent and to take from you the custody and guardianship of said child Baby Girl Docker.

Now, unless you appear within twenty days after the date of this notice and show cause against such application, the petition shall be taken for confessed and a decree entered.

Clerk of the County Court.

"CONTAGION" SUBJECT OF BROADCAST THIS MORNING

Listen to "The Spector of Contagion", on the Will County Health Department broadcast over station WJOL, Joliet, Friday morning, January 3, at 10:15.

Will vaccination hurt my child? Mild reactions in an infant are usually of short duration, but it is much better for the child to have this mild reaction to the vaccine than to contract a preventable contagious disease. When immunization measures are universally adopted by all parents of young children, diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid fever, and whooping cough need no longer be a menace, states Dr. Cecil A. Z. Sharp, County Health Officer. Tune in WJOL Friday morning at 10:15.
